

EVAW Help Desk 2012 Rapid Assessment

Statistics

35 requests in 2012, nearly equal to 2011 (36) and down from previous years 49 in 2010 and 125 in 2009.

88% found the turnaround time to be quick. The remaining 8% found it to be fairly quick.

77% of the recipients found the resources and information provided to be extremely useful.

Illustrative Uses

Resources on data, research and survey design were used to support the IFC-World Bank's development of a violence against women survey to feed into the global Women, Business and the Law Database.

Technical guidance and resources were used to inform the development of DfID's global theory of change on violence against women.

Resources provided to inform a study on Reality & Risk: Pornography, Young People and Sexuality in Australia.

Tools, literature and promising practice examples on addressing violence against women with disabilities supported mainstreaming of the issue in a regional disabilities programme in the Asia Pacific.

Resources on violence against women in El Salvador, Costa Rica and Guatemala were used to inform the design of a PAHO supported primary prevention of violence against women and children programme in Central America.

Resources and technical guidance were used to inform the design of Action Aid's Women and the City programmes in Brazil, Cambodia, Ethiopia, Kenya, Liberia and Nepal.

Guidance, resources and literature supported the Gender Equality Council of Georgia to establish a national referral mechanism for victims of SGBV, in addition to the development of a forthcoming manual for human rights defenders.

Resources and literature informed the New York City Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence financial empowerment program and curriculum.

Materials and promising practice examples on edutainment were used to inform the development of social radio dramas in Palestine.

Tools and resources on preventing violence against women were used to develop an orientation session on the topic for college campuses in the United States.